Période d'enseignement:

- Semestre Printemps

Equipe enseignante:

MER Dr. Alex Aebi
Prof. Ellen Hertz

Objectifs:

The objective of this course is to guide biologists willing to take the biology anthropology specialization by directing them to appropriate readings in anthropology but also in interdisciplinary studies mobilizing both biology and anthropology

Contenu:

An initial meeting will help teachers to understand the motivation of the student to take the biology anthropology specialization. Prior to the meeting, students will be asked to write down their motivation, their envisioned master degree subject and the way they consider to take an interdisciplinary angle to their research.

Based on this discussion, student will receive a list of publications to read. Additionally, student will be asked to find read a minimum of three articles thematically relevant. A brief summary of these papers will be asked to the student (max. 1 page).

At the end of the semester, student will be asked to mobilize their reading in an essay on the relevance of an interdisciplinary approach of their envisioned master degree topic.

Forme de l'évaluation:

Contrôle continu, noté.

Students will be evaluated on their active participation to the course and on the quality of their essay.

Deadline for the submission of the essay: 2nd of June 2017

Failures and resubmissions. If the first essay fails to fulfil our success criteria, an improved version (second attempt) will be asked for the 20th of July 2017. The obtained grade will be inserted in IS-Academia. If the second fails to fulfill our success criteria, an improved version (third attempt) will be asked for the 18th of August 2017. The obtained grade will be inserted in IS-academia.
