Contenu

Talking Point gives students the opportunity to practice their comprehension and expression of spoken English through a wide range of activities including language games, discussion, and short debates. The aim of the course is to develop oral fluency and to enrich English vocabulary.

One well-prepared presentation per student is required (on a topic of the student's choice, subject to instructor approval) of 20 minutes' duration, including discussion. Each presentation should be designed to involve other students in discussion.

Students who have a C1 or C2 certification in English or who have already completed a Language Stay Abroad may request a course exemption. Students who receive an exemption will still need to make up the 3 ECTS credits and can do so by taking an elective BA seminar.

Forme de l'évaluation

Continuous assessment of presentations and participation in the class. In case of failure, the rattrapage will be a 30-minute oral exam in which the student has to accomplish a series of speaking and comprehension tasks.

Documentation

Depending on student numbers, activities may include discussion of texts taken from high-quality contemporary writing on a range of themes related to English-speaking culture, as well as other speaking activities to promote fluency.

Pré-requis

Before beginning this course, students need to have reached a level in English of at least B2 (Common European Framework), roughly the equivalent of the Cambridge First Certificate Examination.

Forme de l'enseignement

Workshop in three groups on Wednesdays: 12:00-12:45, 13:15-14:00, and 14:15-15:00
