Teams of 4 students from a steadily increasing number of universities from all over the world participate in this moot (in 2012-13 about 300 teams). All Swiss law faculties send regularly teams to this moot court. The moot involves arbitral proceedings concerning a contract of sale subject to the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods (CISG). The moot is held in English and is composed of two phases: a written phase where the teams submit a memorandum for claimant and another memorandum for respondent; an oral phase in Vienna where the teams plead the case in oral hearings.

The team must register before the end of June. Interested students are therefore invited to send to Ms Charlotte Rossat a motivation letter (in English) as well as their grades before the end of May. The members of the team will be selected based on the quality of these documents as well as a personal interview (in English).
